ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A language data package (102) includes a language pack section (104) that includes data for a particular language, text translations for the applications and the character font sets to support the particular language (e.g., Spanish, English, etc.).

- 10 The language data package (102) further includes a rules database (108) for the language. The language data package (102) can be loaded into an electronic device (100) without the need to re-booting the electronic device and without the need for a file system.
